FRIDAY, NOV. 29, 1895.

Greeley, Colorado, was moved by an earthquake Monday afternoon. No damage was done.

Ten thousand legal voters in New York City failed to mark their ballots correctly, and they were disfranchised on this account.

Now Kansas has a wonderful healer, who is performing all the miraculous cures that Schlatter, the Denver man did, and more too.

Eugene V. Debs, the leader of the great railroad strike, who was recently released, says that under no circumstances will he ever again lead a strike.

If the Democrats want a logical candidate next year, ex-Governor Campbell is their man. He is right at home under a landslide.—Kansas City Journal.

The New York World begs to assure us that there are many Democrats left in New York. They were left very generally all over the Union on November 5.—Ex.

According to the London Times, Cleveland is the logical and winning candidate for the democratic nomination for president. But England does not yet fully control our elections.

It is reported that the Ohio river is so low in some place, that the humane societies of the Buckeye state have appointed agents to carry water to the fish, so that they will not suffer from thirst.

Gail Hamilton says in her "Life of James G. Blaine" that the break in the cordial relations between Blaine and Harrison was due to the latter's refusal to appoint Walker Blaine First Assistant Secretary of State.

The snow storm this week has been general, extending as far south as the middle of Texas, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri are now covered, while Arkansas, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Texas were treated to a heavy snow fall, which melted as fast as it fell.

It has been decided to remove the remains of General Hancock from the cemetery at Harrisburg, Pa., where they have reposed since his death, to the national cemetery at Arlington, near Washington, where Sheridan, Porter, Crook, and other heroes of the rebellion are buried.

Henry Clews, the big banker turns aside from the consideration of bonds and stocks, gold and silver, to predict that there will soon be a decided slump in the prices of bicycles. He says that the American people have invested $200,000,000 in them in the last four years, and that competition will make it impossible for manufacturers to continue selling at $100 an article that costs only about $27. It is estimated that the output of wheels will next season reach 800,000 and this certainly ought to cause a reduction of the present extravagant price.—Ex.

The Christmas number of the Standard Delineator is a veritable surprise. The artistic cover is rendered seasonable by the addition of a wreath of holly, the colored fashion and millinery plates are handsomer than ever, and the new designs for ladies' misses' and children's costumes cannot be surpassed for style and beauty. In addition there are excellent articles, beautifully illustrated, on Fancy Dress, Christmas Gifts and How to Make Them, Presents for the Little Ones, Leather Work, Cookery and Etiquette. Floriculture is by Mr. Eben E. Rexford, the well known authority on the subject, and a large amount of interesting fiction gives a holiday air to the whole number. It is a genuine treat to be able to procure so interesting a magazine for the small sum of ten cents, and every woman who wishes to be up to the times will find real help in the various departments.

THE CORN PROBLEM.

St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The western farmers are confronted by the fact that while they are blessed with a bountiful corn crop, its abundance involves the irony of prices which leave them little or no profit for their labor. This is always the condition that interferes with hearty rejoicing over a phenomenal product of any kind. The market is regulated by the supply, and when the supply is excessive, the price declines accordingly. But in the case of corn, at least, the producer is not wholly at the mercy of such a condition. The price of that important cereal never remains long at a low point. It usually touches bottom to begin with, and then there is a gradual advance to a satisfactory figure. The farmer in the Mississippi or Missouri Valley who looks today upon his large yield of corn for which he is offered only from 15c to 20c a bushel may be pardoned for feeling that his apparent good luck is a snare and a delusion; but there is a way for him to make it properly advantageous. He can defeat the fate that seems to have emptied the horn of plenty on him only to poke grim and bitter fun at him. It is simply a question of putting the corn into cribs and waiting for it to acquire a higher value. A result of that sort is sure to ensue before many months, and he is foolish if he sells any sooner.

This is not a mere matter of conjecture, but of experience and precedent. When the great corn crop of 1889 matured, it did not appear to be worth enough to pay for taking it to market. The price in November and December ranged from 12c to 15c in the local markets of the western states; but early in the following May the price went up to 30c, in August it reached 40c, and in October it was 50c. In 1891, when the aggregate crop was almost equal to that of the present year, it began selling at gathering time as low as 18c to 20c; but in the succeeding May it advanced to 35c, and in June it was 45c at all local points on the principal western railroad lines. These figures indicate such a rise as does not often take place in any other kind of property; and there is no reason to doubt that it will be duplicated in the present instance. The discouraging price that now prevails will not continue very long. It will take an upward start just as soon as that portion of the product which seeks an early market is taken out of the way. Those who refused to sell at the present time, and store their corn carefully, can confidently count upon a rise of from 20 to 50 per cent above all loss from shrinkage in the next six months. There is no other way, in any other business, in which an equal ratio of profit can be so safely expected. We are constantly being told that farming does not pay; but it does pay, unquestionably, when opportunities of this kind are improved.

HOW TO PREVENT CROUP.

SOME READING THAT WILL PROVE INTERESTING TO YOUNG MOTHERS.
HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THE DISEASE.

Croup is a terror to young mothers, and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by M. H. Taylor, the druggist.

The healing properties of De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve are well known. It cures eczema, skin eruptions and is simply a perfect remedy for piles. Taylor the druggist.

Nothing so distressing as a hacking cough. Nothing so foolish as to suffer from it. Nothing so dangerous if allowed to continue. One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief. Taylor, the druggist.

The wife of Mr. Leonard Wells, of East Brimfield, Mass., had been suffering from neuralgia for two days, not being able to sleep or hardly keep still, when Mr. Hoiden, the merchant there sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and asked that she give it a thorough trial. On meeting Mr. Wells the next day he was told that she was all right, the pain had left her within two hours, and that the bottle of Pain Balm was worth $5.00 if it could not be had for less. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by M. H. Taylor.

A G Bartley of Maggie, Pa., writes: I feel it a duty of mine to inform you and the public that De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of a very bad case of eczema. It also cured my boy of a running sore on his leg. Taylor the druggist.

THE MILD POWER CURES.

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY

That the diseases of domestic animals, HORSES, CATTLE, SHEEP, DOGS, HOGS, and POULTRY, are cured by Humphreys' Veterinary Specifics, is as true as that people ride on railroads, send messages by telegraph, or sew with sewing machines. It is as irrational to bottle, ball and bleed animals in order to cure them, as it is to take passage in a sloop from New York to Albany. Used in the best stables and recommended by the U. S. Army Cavalry Officers.

THE NAME OF THE NEXT President OF THE United States

WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN THE of November 4th, 1896.

Public interest will steadily increase, and the disappointment of the men whose votes turned the scale at the last election, with the results under the administration they elected, will make the campaign the most intensely interesting in the history of the country.

The New York Weekly Tribune, the leading Republican family newspaper in the United States, will publish all the political news of the day, interesting to every American citizen regardless of party affiliations.

Also general news in attractive form, foreign correspondence covering the news of the world, an agricultural department second to none in the country, market reports which are recognized authority, fascinating short stories, complete in each number, the cream of the humorous papers, foreign and domestic, with their best comic pictures, fashions plates and elaborate descriptions of woman's attire, with a varied and attractive department of household interest. The "New York Weekly Tribune" is an ideal family paper with a circulation larger than any other weekly publication in the country issued from the office of a daily. Large changes are being made in its details, tending to give it greater life and variety, and especially more interest to the women and young people of the household.
